DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 13-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Takaki ('458).

Per independent claim 13, Takaki discloses an acoustic system that includes an emitter base (Fig. 1) comprising means (26) of emission of sonar pulses, a receiver base (Fig. 2) comprising means (28-46) of reception and of processing of sonar echoes, the emitter base also comprising means (14, 16, 18, 21) for transmitting mode information to the receiver base wherein the mode information is transmitted to the receiver base in acoustic form by an appraisal pulse (synchronization pulse), the appraisal pulse being modulated by a signal containing the mode information. Claim 13 is thus, anticipated by Takaki.

Dependent claims 14-34 are further provided by Figs. 1-2 of Takaki.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed April 7, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Takaki does not show a multistatic system but rather merely discloses a monostatic system. This argument is not convincing in light of what applicant is broadly claiming and how such claim language reads upon Takaki. Specifically, it is pointed out that. As presently claimed, the instant claims read upon the Takaki system, whether the system is monostatic or multistatic. The instant claims, and more specifically claim 13, does not patentably define structure that defines over Takaki. It is irrelevant whether Takaki is used and mounted on a fishing net since the instant claims are broad enough to read upon the claimed structure.

Applicant argument, that the specification of the present application details means for allowing all the receiving bases to determine when and how a transmission occurs, is not commensurate in scope with what is instantly claimed.

Finally, applicant's argument as to the "appraisal pulse" fails to acknowledge that the Takaki reference discloses a synchronization pulse that reads upon the appraisal pulse, as instantly claimed.

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See col. 7, lines 37+ of the Wurman patent.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
